

Angela Hoke, CPA
Audit Principal

Angie joined Crosslin as an Audit Principal, bringing twenty years of experience in audit and industry. Prior to joining Crosslin, Angie was an Assurance Partner at a Big Four firm, performed contract and consulting services for small to medium sized companies as the sole owner of Hoke Financial Services, and served as the Chief Accounting Officer for a public Real Estate Investment Trust (REIT).

As an auditor with a Big Four firm, Angie directed audits ranging from 200 to 10,000 hours, directing teams of varying sizes on audits with multiple components and deadlines. She worked in a variety of industries, including healthcare, manufacturing, distribution, retail, quasi-insurance (i.e., extended warranty), and transportation. She worked with both private and public companies, often assisting customers with complex accounting and capital transactions as well as financial reporting. She was a leader in the firm with respect to understanding, documenting and testing of internal controls, including those governed under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act. She was also a leader in audit efficiency innovation, and led many training classes and coaching sessions to help others implement effective and efficient techniques on audits. In her role as a consultant, she worked with a charter school education company with not-for-profit elements. In her role as the CAO for a large real estate company, she gained insight into the challenges and pressures facing customers, and that insight has significantly impacted her perspective as an auditor.

In addition to multiple professional associations, Angie is a member of the National Association of Professional Women and has spent years dedicated to the mentoring and advancement of professional women. Angie has served in a volunteer capacity at Exile International, an organization dedicated to the restoration and empowerment of war-affected children and former child soldiers in Uganda and DR Congo through art therapy and rehabilitative care. She also previously served as a board member and treasurer of Safe Haven Family Shelter, the only shelter-to-housing program of its kind in Middle Tennessee that accepts the entire homeless family.

Angela holds a bachelor's degree in business from Murray State University. She graduated Summa Cum Laude and was named Kentucky Business Society's Business Student of the Year in 1994.

Education

Bachelor's Degree, Murray State University

Licenses & Certifications

CPA, Tennessee and Kentucky

Professional Associations

Member, American Institute of Certified Public Accountants

Member, Tennessee Society of Certified Public Accountants

Other Activities

Member, National Association of Professional Women

Volunteer with Exile International

Former Board Member and Treasurer, Safe Haven Family Shelter